SINCE its inception in 1947, The Georgia Review has grown steadily to its current position as one of America's premier journals of arts and letters. Each quarterly issue is a rich gathering of distinguished parts—essays, stories, poems, graphics, and book reviews—but also an orchestrated whole, individual pieces blended to complement and enhance each other. The Georgia Review, according to the London Times Literary Supplement, “Sets standards of literacy, editorial, and graphic excellence...”

"The single best measure of the state of affairs in American literature today."

New York Times Book Review

"This annual anthology of the best stories, essays, and poetry published by small presses continues to illustrate that high literary standards can survive despite the power wielded by profit-hungry publishing behemoths."

Publishers Weekly

"This book is essential."

Library Journal

"A national literary treasure." Kirkus Reviews

"Those who despair of finding good writing in mass media America need look no further than the Pushcart Prize." Booklist
