a brief history

The University of San Francisco began in 1855 as a one-room schoolhouse named Saint Ignatius Academy. Its founding is interwoven with the establishment of the Jesuit Order in California, European immigration to the western United States, and the population growth of California and San Francisco as a result of the California Gold Rush.

On October 15, 1855, the school opened its doors to its first class. Three students showed up, a number that gradually grew to 65 by 1858. In 1859, Anthony Maraschi, S.J., the founding president of Saint Ignatius Academy, incorporated the institution under California state law, obtained a charter to issue college degrees, formed a board of trustees, and renamed the institution Saint Ignatius College. Student enrollment, composed largely of first- and second-generation Irish and Italian immigrants, increased to 457 by 1862.

Further growth in the number of students and rising property taxes prompted Saint Ignatius Church and College to move in 1880 to the corner of Hayes Street and Van Ness Avenue, the current site of the Louise M. Davies Symphony Hall. The college opened its doors to 650 students and rave reviews in the local press. The institution occupied a full city block and was described as having “scientific laboratories and departments” as “thoroughly equipped as money can make them” and a library that contained “the cream of knowledge on all necessary subjects.” The attached church was described as “magnificent” and could hold up to 4,000 people. In 1903, the college added a “splendid new gymnasium,” described as the best in the city.

The history of St. Ignatius Church and College at this location came to an abrupt end on April 18, 1906. On the morning of that day, an earthquake, followed by several days of fire, brought the church and college, and most of San Francisco, to almost complete ruin. The city and the institution, however, quickly rebuilt from the devastation. In September 1906, Saint Ignatius Church and School reopened in temporary quarters, known as the “shirt factory,” on the southwest corner of Hayes and Shrader streets, currently the site of one of the buildings of St Mary’s Medical Center. In 1927, St. Ignatius College moved into its new Liberal Arts Building, the present Kalmanovitz Hall, near the corner of Fulton and Parker Streets. In 1930, at the request of several alumni groups, Saint Ignatius College changed its name to the University of San Francisco.

For 150 years, the University of San Francisco has served the citizens of San Francisco and enriched the lives of thousands of people. The institution has graduated students who went on to become leaders in government, education, business, journalism, sports, and the legal and medical professions. Among its alumni, the university counts two San Francisco mayors, a United States Senator, four California Supreme Court Justices, a California Lieutenant Governor, two Pulitzer Prize winners, an Olympic medalist, several professional athletes, and the president of Peru.

Today the University of San Francisco enrolls more than 8,500 students in its six schools and colleges: The School of Law, founded in 1912; the College of Arts and Sciences, organized in 1925; the School of Business and Management, which began in 1925 as the College of Commerce and Finance; the School of Education, which started as the Department of Education in 1947 and was upgraded to a school in 1972; the School of Nursing, which began as the Department of Nursing in 1948 and became a school in 1954; and the College of Professional Studies, which began as the Office of Continuing Education in 1975, was elevated to the School of Continuing Education in 1979, and took on its current name in 1980. USF is one of the most ethnically diverse universities in the nation. Among the entire fall 2006 student population, more than 40 percent are Asian, African-American, Latino, Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander, or multi-ethnic, and almost 9 percent are international.

Central to the mission of the University of San Francisco is the preparation of men and women to shape a multicultural world with generosity, compassion, and justice. The institution's most recent Vision, Mission, and Values Statement, approved by the Board of Trustees on September 11, 2001, after a year of formulation and campus-wide participation, captures the essence of this commitment in its opening paragraph: "The University of San Francisco will be internationally recognized as a premier Jesuit Catholic, urban University with a global perspective that educates leaders who will fashion a more humane and just world." This mission permeates all aspects of the institution, including student learning and faculty development, curriculum design, program and degree offerings, alumni relations, publications, and a host of other institutional features.

In 2005, the University of San Francisco celebrated the 150th anniversary of its founding. The main USF campus currently occupies 55 acres near Golden Gate Park in San Francisco. In addition, the university offers classes at four Northern California regional campuses and at a Southern California regional campus. The schools and colleges comprising the institution also offer students a multitude of international experiences and study-abroad programs that enrich the learning community and fulfill the university's mission. The institution has grown dramatically since its modest beginning. It continues, however, to fulfill a mission that stretches back in time to the founding of the Society of Jesus in 1540 by St. Ignatius of Loyola, that took root in San Francisco in 1855, and that flourishes today in a premier Jesuit Catholic University.

PRESIDENT:

Stephen A. Privett, S.J.

PROVOST:

James L. Wisner

SPONSORSHIP AND CONTROL:

USF is an independent, private, non-profit institution of higher education governed by a 44-member Board of Trustees. It is one of the 28 Jesuit Catholic colleges and universities in the United States.

FOUNDING AND CHARTER:

USF was founded in 1855 and was granted a charter by the State of California to issue college degrees in 1859.

ACCREDITATION:

The University of San Francisco is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), an accreditation first granted in 1950 by the Western College Association (WCA), the antecedent of WASC. Periodically, USF's accreditation is reaffirmed by WASC.

USF is also accredited by several professional accrediting bodies, including, but not limited to, the American Bar Association (ABA), the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing, AACSB International—The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, and the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE).

CLASSIFICATION BY THE CARNEGIE FOUNDATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF TEACHING:

USF is classified as a Doctoral/Research and Community Engaged University.

Under the new Carnegie Foundation classification system, USF is characterized as balancing arts, sciences, and the professions at the undergraduate level; as doctoral/professional dominant at the graduate level; with the majority of its students being undergraduates; as selective, with a high level of transfer-in students; and as a medium-sized, four-year, and primarily residential institution. In 2006, USF received the community engagement classification in both possible categories, curriculum engagement and outreach and partnership.

usf student profile

As of September 15, 2006 (Census Date), the University of San Francisco enrolled 8,568 students, including 5,242 undergraduate students, 2,404 graduate students, 715 law students, and 207 special/non-degree students.

USF's coed student body (37.9 percent male and 62.1 percent female) represents diverse ethnic, religious, social, and economic backgrounds, 69 foreign countries, and 47 states.

athletics

The men's baseball team had a record-breaking 2006 season, winning 39 games, the most in school history. The team won the WCC Championship and made its first appearance in the NCAA regional tournament.

In the fall of 2006, there were 231 student-athletes at USF, 155 of whom had full or partial athletic scholarships.

Among the student-athletes, 126 were men (81 of whom had scholarships), and 105 were women (74 of whom had scholarships).

- The University of San Francisco's NCAA Division I teams include men's basketball, soccer, baseball, golf, tennis, and cross-country, and women's basketball, cross-country, golf, soccer, tennis, volleyball, and track.
- USF NCAA Division I teams have won eight national championships since 1949, including four in men's soccer, three in men's basketball, and one in men's tennis.
- The men's basketball team has won 15 West Coast Conference titles since 1949.
- The men's soccer team has won 35 West Coast Conference titles since 1948, the most recent in 2005.
- From 1987 to 2000, the women's basketball team won three West Coast Conference titles, secured three NCAA tournament berths, and had one Sweet Sixteen appearance.
- At the end of the 2005 academic year, USF led the West Coast Conference in the number (19) of student-athletes who earned gold honors on the WCC Commissioner's Honor Roll, which recognizes student athletes with a GPA of 3.75 to 4.00. A total of 97 USF student-athletes (the highest number in the history of the school) were named to the WCC Honor Roll, which includes those with GPAs of 3.0 or higher.
- Under the new NCAA Graduation Success Rate formula applied to all Division I schools, 89 percent of the USF student-athletes in the 1999 entering freshman classes graduated within six years. For 318 Division I schools nationwide, 77 percent of the student-athletes graduated in six years.
- In 2006, Debi Gore-Mann became the first female athletic director in school history, and only the third ever in the West Coast Conference.
- Highlighted by first-place finishes in soccer and baseball, USF's men's athletic teams won the WCC Men's All Sports Award for 2005-2006.

key events during 2006

September 11: Dr. Paul Farmer, winner of the MacArthur genius grant for his work in promoting health care as a fundamental human right for the world's poorest citizens, speaks to more than 600 members of the USF community on "Using Medicine as a Tool for Social Justice."

FEBRUARY 12

As part of the university's sesquicentennial celebration, a Renewal Mass is held in St. Ignatius Church, during which alumni, faculty, and staff reaffirm their personal and professional commitments stemming from their USF experience.

MARCH 23–MARCH 25

USF serves as the host school for the NCAA Men's Basketball Regional Tournament, held in the Oakland Arena.

MAY 9

As part of the university's sesquicentennial celebration, USF President Stephen A. Privett, S.J., dedicates a time capsule containing objects from USF's 150th year. The capsule, to be opened in 2105, contains Legacy and Promise, the university's sesquicentennial history book; Legends of the Hilltop, a history of USF athletics; the 150th Anniversary Edition of the USF Magazine, copies of the Foghorn, the Ignatian Literary Magazine, and the USF Yearbook; videos, photos, and invitations from the 150th anniversary weekend; CDS on the Campaign for USF and Celebrating the USF Jesuit Community; the campus master plan, an alumni directory, and a catalog of classes; a KUSF decal; a Green and Gold Beanie (dink); an Ipod; the 2006 Service and Merit Award brochure; a video on the new student orientation, flyers from student events; and the Vision, Mission, and Values Statement of USF.

MAY 13

The Spring Gala, a community celebration honoring USF's alumni and friends, is held at the Westin St. Francis Hotel. In keeping with the university's 150th anniversary year, Legacy and Promise is the theme for the evening, celebrating individuals and groups who made a significant contribution to USF. Award recipients include Arthur Zief Sr. '41, JD '47, alumnus of the year; Leslie W. McBee '69, professional achievement award; the USF Jesuit Community, service award, and USF alumni who joined the Peace Corps and Jesuit Volunteer Corps Alumni, service awards.

MAY 19–MAY 21

1,675 undergraduate, graduate, and law students participate in the May 2006 commencement exercises. The commencement marks the final event of the sesquicentennial year, and the university honors its 1951 undefeated football team for its role in combating racism. The university also bestows honorary degrees on three of the Bay Area's most influential leaders: Michael Tilson Thomas, music director of the San Francisco Symphony; Richard Blum, founder and chairman of the Himalayan Foundation; and Gloria Duffy, CEO of the Commonwealth Club of California. The School of Nursing and the School of Education bestow an honorary degree on Alice B. Hayes, scientist, educator, and former president of the University of San Diego. The School of Law honors Claudia Smith, civil rights activist and attorney for Latin American immigrants.

MAY 31

Highlighted by first-place finishes in soccer and baseball, the West Coast Conference (WCC) Office announces that USF's men's athletic teams win the WCC Men's All-Sports Award for 2005–2006.

AUGUST 19

Student orientation begins. USF enrolls 8,568 undergraduate, graduate, and law students, including 1,079 freshmen—the largest freshman class ever.

SEPTEMBER 5

San Francisco Mayor Gavin Newsom gives the first presentation in a five-part series featuring the most recent mayors of San Francisco addressing the challenges of making critical ethical decisions while in public office. Mayor Newsom is followed by former mayors Frank Jordan on September 28, Willie Brown on October 19, and Art Agnos on November 2. Former mayor and current U.S. Senator Dianne Feinstein will speak at in the spring of 2007. Series is sponsored by the Office of the President, the Leo T. McCarthy Center for Public Service and the Common Good, and the American Institute for Ethics.

SEPTEMBER 11

The annual Mass of the Holy Spirit welcomes the USF community to the fall semester. The homily is delivered by Fr. Gerard Jean-Juste, a Catholic priest jailed for his efforts to promote democratic ideals and foster human rights in his native Haiti. At the Mass, Fr. Jean-Juste receives an honorary doctorate from USF.

SEPTEMBER 13

Fromm Hall, formerly Xavier Hall, opens its doors after 18 months of construction and renovation resulting from a $10 million gift from the Friends of the Fromm Institute for Lifelong Learning. In 1976, Alfred and Hanna Fromm began the Fromm Institute, which now offers classes taught by retired professors to more than 1,200 older learners. The building houses the offices and classrooms of the Fromm Institute, a multipurpose lobby, administrative offices for St. Ignatius Parish, an undergraduate residence hall, and classrooms and offices for USF's visual arts program.

OCTOBER 27 AND 28

Seeking to educate and mobilize American Catholics to join the fight against global poverty, the Joan and Ralph Lane Center for Catholic Studies and Social Thought at USF co-sponsors a two-day national conference on global poverty at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco. The conference is also sponsored by the Archdiocese of San Francisco, Catholic Healthcare West, Catholic Relief Services, the Daughters of Charity, the Seton Institute, and the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops. The keynote speaker is Jeffrey Sachs, director of the Earth Institute and author of The End of Poverty: Economic Possibilities for Our Time. Panel speakers include USF President Stephen A. Privett, S.J., and Charles Geschke, chair of USF's Board of Trustees.

DECEMBER 5

USF's long-standing commitment to social justice in the local and global community is recognized by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, which designates USF as one of just 76 community engaged colleges and universities in the nation. In awarding the classification, the Carnegie Foundation says that USF's community engagement programs are "exemplary" and that the university demonstrates an "excellent alignment between mission, culture, leadership, resources, and practices that support dynamic and noteworthy community engagement."

DECEMBER 13

674 undergraduate and graduate students attend the December 2006 commencement exercises. Roselyne Swig, philanthropic and civic leader and fine arts consultant, receives an honorary degree for her community service on behalf of social justice and women's rights.

DECEMBER 27

Nineteen members of the 1951 "unbeaten, untied, and uninvited" USF football team, one of the most famous athletic teams in sports history for its greatness on the field and its courageous stand against racism, are honored at the Emerald Bowl Game, played in San Francisco at AT&T Park before an audience of more than 40,000 people.
