a brief history

The University of San Francisco began in 1855 as a one-room schoolhouse named Saint Ignatius Academy. Its founding is interwoven with the establishment of the Jesuit Order in California, European immigration to the western United States, and the population growth of California and San Francisco as a result of the California Gold Rush.

On October 15, 1855, the school opened its doors to its first class. Three students showed up, a number that gradually grew to 65 by 1858. In 1859, Anthony Maraschi, S.J., the founding president of Saint Ignatius Academy, incorporated the institution under California state law, obtained a charter to issue college degrees, formed a board of trustees, and renamed the institution Saint Ignatius College. Student enrollment, composed largely of first- and second-generation Irish and Italian immigrants, increased to 457 by 1862.

Further growth in the number of students and rising property taxes prompted Saint Ignatius Church and College to move in 1880 to the corner of Hayes Street and Van Ness Avenue, the current site of the Louise M. Davies Symphony Hall. The college opened its doors to 650 students and rave reviews in the local press. The institution occupied a full city block and was described as having “scientific laboratories and departments” as “thoroughly equipped as money can make them” and a library that contained “the cream of knowledge on all necessary subjects.” The attached church was described as “magnificent” and could hold up to 4,000 people. In 1903, the college added a “splendid new gymnasium,” described as the best in the city.

The history of St. Ignatius Church and College at this location came to an abrupt end on April 18, 1906. On the morning of that day, an earthquake, followed by several days of fire, brought the church and college, and most of San Francisco, to almost complete ruin. The city and the institution, however, quickly rebuilt from the devastation. In September 1906, Saint Ignatius Church and School reopened in temporary quarters, known as the “shirt factory,” on the southwest corner of Hayes and Shrader streets, currently the site of one of the buildings of St Mary’s Medical Center. In 1927, St. Ignatius College moved into its new Liberal Arts Building, the present Kalmanovitz Hall, near the corner of Fulton and Parker Streets. In 1930, at the request of several alumni groups, Saint Ignatius College changed its name to the University of San Francisco.

For 150 years, the University of San Francisco has served the citizens of San Francisco and enriched the lives of thousands of people. The institution has graduated students who went on to become leaders in government, education, business, journalism, sports, and the legal and medical professions. Among its alumni, the university counts two San Francisco mayors, a United States Senator, four California Supreme Court Justices, a California Lieutenant Governor, two Pulitzer Prize winners, an Olympic medalist, several professional athletes, and the president of Peru.

Today the University of San Francisco enrolls more than 8,700 students in its six schools and colleges: The School of Law, founded in 1912; the College of Arts and Sciences, organized in 1925; the School of Business and Management, which began in 1925 as the College of Commerce and Finance; the School of Education, which started as the Department of Education in 1947 and was upgraded to a school in 1972; the School of Nursing, which began as the Department of Nursing in 1948 and became a school in 1954; and the College of Professional Studies, which began as the Office of Continuing Education in 1975, was elevated to the School of Continuing Education in 1979, and took on its current name in 1980. USF is one of the most ethnically diverse universities in the nation. Among the entire fall 2007 student population, 40 percent are Asian, African-American, Latino, Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander, or multi-ethnic, and 9 percent are international.

Central to the mission of the University of San Francisco is the preparation of men and women to shape a multicultural world with generosity, compassion, and justice. The institution's most recent Vision, Mission, and Values Statement, approved by the Board of Trustees on September 11, 2001, after a year of formulation and campus-wide participation, captures the essence of this commitment in its opening paragraph: "The University of San Francisco will be internationally recognized as a premier Jesuit Catholic, urban University with a global perspective that educates leaders who will fashion a more humane and just world." This mission permeates all aspects of the institution, including student learning and faculty development, curriculum design, program and degree offerings, alumni relations, publications, and a host of other institutional features.

In 2005, the University of San Francisco celebrated the 150th anniversary of its founding. The main USF campus currently occupies 55 acres near Golden Gate Park in San Francisco. In addition, the university offers classes at four Northern California regional campuses and at a Southern California regional campus. The schools and colleges comprising the institution also offer students a multitude of international experiences and study-abroad programs that enrich the learning community and fulfill the university's mission. The institution has grown dramatically since its modest beginning. It continues, however, to fulfill a mission that stretches back in time to the founding of the Society of Jesus in 1540 by St. Ignatius of Loyola, that took root in San Francisco in 1855, and that flourishes today in a premier Jesuit Catholic University.

PRESIDENT:

Stephen A. Privett, S.J.

PROVOST:

James L. Wisner

SPONSORSHIP AND CONTROL:

USF is an independent, private, non-profit institution of higher education governed by a 44-member Board of Trustees. It is one of the 28 Jesuit Catholic colleges and universities in the United States.

FOUNDING AND CHARTER:

USF was founded in 1855 and was granted a charter by the State of California to issue college degrees in 1859.

ACCREDITATION:

The University of San Francisco is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), an accreditation first granted in 1950 by the Western College Association (WCA), the antecedent of WASC. Periodically, USF's accreditation is reaffirmed by WASC.

USF is also accredited by several professional accrediting bodies, including, but not limited to, the American Bar Association (ABA), the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing, AACSB International—The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, and the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE).

CLASSIFICATION BY THE CARNEGIE FOUNDATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF TEACHING:

USF is classified as a Doctoral/Research and Community Engaged University.

Under the new Carnegie Foundation classification system, USF is characterized as balancing arts, sciences, and the professions at the undergraduate level; as doctoral/professional dominant at the graduate level; with the majority of its students being undergraduates; as selective, with a high level of transfer-in students; and as a medium-sized, four-year, and primarily residential institution. In 2006, USF received the community engagement classification in both possible categories, curriculum engagement and outreach and partnership.

usf student profile

As of September 15, 2007 (Census Date), the University of San Francisco enrolled 8,722 students, including 5,278 undergraduate students, 2,518 graduate students, 739 law students, and 187 special/non-degree students.

USF's coed student body (38.1 percent male and 61.9 percent female) represents diverse ethnic, religious, social, and economic backgrounds, 69 foreign countries, and 49 states.

athletics

USF left-handed pitcher Aaron Poreda was selected by the Chicago White Sox in the first round of the 2007 Major League Baseball First Year Player Draft. Poreda is the highest draft pick in the history of the USF baseball program. Jesse Foppert (2001) and three-time All-American Taggert Bozied (2000) were both second round selections. Poreda is the seventh USF baseball player selected in the first 10 rounds of the Major League Draft since 2000.

In the fall of 2007, there were 242 student-athletes at USF, 143 of whom had full or partial athletic scholarships.

Among the student-athletes, 150 were men (75 of whom had scholarships), and 92 were women (68 of whom had scholarships).

- The University of San Francisco's NCAA Division I teams include men's basketball, soccer, baseball, golf, tennis, and cross-country, and women's basketball, cross-country, golf, soccer, tennis, volleyball, and track.
- USF NCAA Division I teams have won eight national championships since 1949, including four in men's soccer, three in men's basketball, and one in men's tennis.
- The men's basketball team has won 15 West Coast Conference titles since 1949.
- The men's soccer team has won 35 West Coast Conference titles since 1948.
- From 1987 to 2000, the women's basketball team won three West Coast Conference titles, secured three NCAA tournament berths, and had one Sweet Sixteen appearance.
- At the end of the 2007 academic year, USF had 14 student-athletes who earned gold honors on the WCC Commissioner's Honor Roll, which recognizes student athletes with a GPA of 3.75 to 4.00. A total of 94 USF student-athletes were named to the WCC Honor Roll, which includes those with GPAs of 3.0 or higher.
- Under the new NCAA Graduation Success Rate formula applied to all Division I schools, 89 percent of the USF student-athletes in the 2000 entering freshman classes graduated within six years. For 318 Division I schools nationwide, 77 percent of the student-athletes graduated in six years.
- In 2006, Debi Gore-Mann became the first female athletic director in school history, and only the third ever in the West Coast Conference.

key events during 2007

JANUARY 4

USF President Stephen A. Privett, S.J., was invited by Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi to offer the invocation during the opening of the 110th Congress. KTVU-TV's Ross McGowan interviewed Fr. Privett via satellite from Washington, D.C. The live segment ran on KTVU-TV's Mornings on 2 program. Fr. Privett's participation and invocation garnered media coverage on CNN, C-SPAN, KRON-TV, KRXI-TV in Reno, and in the San Francisco Examiner and the San Francisco Chronicle.

JANUARY 17

Demolition began of the old entry area of Kalmanovitz Hall (formerly Campion Hall) as part of the reconstruction of the 80-year-old building. The building was constructed in 1927, and was later named Campion Hall in honor of Edmund Campion, S.J., an English martyr. For years, it housed all of the university's administrative offices and classrooms. In December 2005, ground was broken for the reconstruction of the building, and it was officially renamed Kalmanovitz Hall in recognition of a $10 million gift to USF by the Paul and Lydia Kalmanovitz Foundation, a Bay Area philanthropic trust.

JANUARY 31

Alejandro Toledo, former President of Peru and 1970 graduate of the University of San Francisco, spoke in Fromm Hall on the USF campus at an event sponsored by the USF Center for the Pacific Rim. President Toledo addressed the intricate links between democracy, economic growth, and poverty. Born into a poor Andean family of 16 children, Toledo came to USF on a soccer scholarship, earned his bachelor's degree from USF, and obtained two master's degrees and a doctorate from Stanford University. He later worked for the World Bank, the Interamerican Development Bank in Washington, the United Nations Bank in New York, and the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development in Paris. In 2001, he was elected President of Peru and served until 2006.

MARCH 26

An ice-covered lake in Antarctica was named by the U.S. Board of Geographic Names for Deneb Karentz, a USF biology professor who has conducted research on the southernmost continent for the past 20 years. Most of Dr. Karentz's research has focused on the effects of ozone depletion on marine plankton. She has returned to Antarctica once a year to conduct her research and to teach an advanced biology course to graduate students from around the world. Approved geographic names in Antarctica honor those individuals who have played a significant role in the understanding of the continent.

MAY 18-19

A total of 1,744 undergraduate and graduate students were invited to participate in the May commencement exercises. Nancy Pelosi, Speaker of the House of Representatives, delivered one of the commencement addresses in conjunction with the awarding of a posthumous honorary degree to her long-time friend and mentor Leo T. McCarthy, a graduate of USF, three-term Lieutenant Governor of California, and the founder of USF's McCarthy Center for Public Service and the Common Good. The university also bestowed honorary degrees on the Most Reverend George H. Niederauer, Archbishop of San Francisco, for his lifelong commitment to social justice, peace, and moral leadership across denominational boundaries; Tommie Lindsey, a USF graduate, high school teacher, and MacArthur Foundation "Genius Grant" award winner, for his work with multiethnic high school students in promoting their future development through public speaking and debate; George Sarlo, for his support of the victims of human rights violations, underserved populations in developing countries, and excellence in teaching and education in this country; Monsignor Gregory Schaffer, for his efforts over the past four decades to improve the lives of the poor of San Lucas Toliman, Guatemala; Rita Semel, executive vice chair of the San Francisco Interfaith Council, for her lifetime interfaith and community service work; and Kerry Kennedy, author and human rights advocate, for her human rights efforts in more than 30 countries.

JUNE 9-16

USF President Stephen Privett, S.J., led the university's leadership team on a week-long retreat focusing on poverty in Nicaragua, the second poorest country in the Western hemisphere. The experience will help guide the leadership team in making decisions that are in line with the university's mission of educating students who will create a more humane and just world. The trip marked the third such retreat for university executive officers. Prior retreats were to El Salvador and to Tijuana, Mexico.

AUGUST 29

USF's School of Nursing received approval from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges to offer the doctorate of nursing practice (DNP) degree, making USF the first university in California to offer this advanced degree for working nurses. Fewer than 20 universities nationwide offer the DNP degree, though it is rapidly gaining acceptance as the preferred advanced degree in Nursing. USF's program is designed for nurses who provide direct patient care as well as those who provide indirect care through the leadership and administration of healthcare systems.

SEPTEMBER 28

The St. Anthony's Foundation honored USF with its Fr. Alfred Boeddeker Award, the only annual award given by this foundation, for the university's continuing commitment to serving the community and to educating students about responsible citizenship. For more than 20 years, USF has cooperated with St. Anthony's Foundation in a wide range of programs, including a women's shelter, monthly grocery distribution, and a dining room service for the poor and homeless. USF law and nursing students have volunteered their expertise to the foundation, and students from a dozen different service-learning courses have participated in the agency's 11 direct service programs, becoming educated in the process about the needs, challenges, and hopes of the poor of San Francisco.

OCTOBER 12

The university celebrated the successful completion of the Campaign for USF, which raised $178.4 million (exceeding its goal of $175 million) for transforming campus facilities and supporting students and faculty. The celebration, held in the Old Federal Reserve Building in San Francisco, thanked donors for their support in making the campaign the most successful in USF history. The program featured speeches from three students who have benefited from USF scholarships. During the campaign, nearly $50 million was raised for endowed scholarships, and almost $13 million was raised for endowed faculty chairs. Chairs established included the Lo Schiavo Chair for Catholic Social Thought, the Hamill Family Chair in the School of Law, and the P. Carlo Rossi Entrepreneurial Chair in the School of Business and Management. The campaign also raised money for a number of facilities projects, including the renovation of Kalmanovitz Hall, the construction of Malloy Hall and the renovation of the McLaren Center in the School of Business and Management, partial funding for a new Integrated Science Center, the renovation of the Koret Law Center and the remodeling of Kendrick Hall, the renovation of the War Memorial Gymnasium, and the renovation of Fromm Hall as the permanent home of the Fromm Institute for Lifelong Learning. Programs established during the campaign included the Leo T. McCarthy Center for Public Service and the Common Good and the

Joan and Ralph Lane Center for Catholic Studies and Social Thought.

OCTOBER 29-31

An evaluation team from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC) conducted a capacity and preparatory review of USF, based on WASC commission standards, and in partial fulfillment of the requirements for reaffirmation of accreditation.

NOVEMBER 12-16

Approximately 5,400 students successfully registered for Spring 2008 classes in the new BOB (Banner on Board) Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system. The university's ERP consists of student and financial aid information, human resources, finance, and advancement. The migration of the existing ERP system to BOB is a three-year process, which when fully implemented, will provide an integrated, web-based, management information system. In March 2007, Banner Advancement successfully went live, as did Banner Finance in September 2007.

DECEMBER 14

A total of 858 undergraduate and graduate students were invited to participate in the December commencement exercises. Honorary degree recipients included the Burmese Buddhist monks, for their courageous stand for human rights against the repressive military regime in Burma; Gerald McKeivitt, S.J., for his outstanding scholarship about the history of the Jesuits in California and the West; and the Reverend Glenda Hope, for her more than 30 years of work among the poor, disabled, homeless, and those living with HIV/AIDS in San Francisco.
