Praise for RICHARD BURGIN'S The Conference on Beautiful Moments

FROM JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY PRESS

"Burgin skates along the edge of realism and dark fantasy in fiction so supremely well made that all manner of fancy and menace is readily ingested."

— Booklist

"Burgin is the poet laureate of loneliness and longing, writing economically, with humor and exquisite attention to interior monologues."

— The Philadelphia Inquirer

"If his literary career ended today, Richard Burgin would certainly be ranked in the top tier of American short story writers . . . The Conference on Beautiful Moments offers some of his best writing . . . enjoy yet another strong collection by a master practioner of the short story."

— The Pedestal Magazine.com

"This is a work Chekhov could appreciate."

— Review of Contemporary Fiction

"Burgin as a portraitist of conjugal love that is neither idealized nor desperately bleak bears comparison with some of the literary-historical peaks in relationship-realism, like, say, William Dean Howells and Alice Munro."

— Chautauqua Literary Journal

"Burgin is always inventive and suspenseful, with tough and truthful insights about the quest for identity, authenticity, connection and committment."

— The Chicago Tribune

"Richard Burgin's voice is what takes you in. Over the course of several fiction collections and a novel, Ghost Quartet, it has carved out a distinctive and unmistakable place in American letters."

— Per Contra

"Burgin's compelling work examines loneliness...Burgin does a superb job of channeling an essential human need."

— St. Louis Post Dispatch

"It takes a masterful writer to create characters who, regardless of whether they are likeable, keep the reader engaged. Richard Burgin is such a writer."

— January Magazine
